SOLOMON DREW takes the present opportunity of returning his grateful thanks to the public, for the liberal encouragement he has received since his commencement in business, and begs leave to assure them that no exertion has been spared to render his establishment convenient for the reception of travellers and a desirable house for respectable boarders. His stock of wines, liquors, beer, &c. have been selected with attention, and he trusts they will be found not inferior to any in the district. His stabling is fitted up in the best manner, and well adapted for travellers, or others who wish to have their horses kept by the month, week, or otherwise. At the suggestion of some of his friends, he has appropriated a part of his house to the Oyster Business, where will be furnished oyster suppers in the most comfortable manner and reasonable terms.

N. B. The subscriber will carry on the Tayloring business as heretofore, and returns his acknowledgements to his customers in that line, for favors received and hopes to merit their future support. Oct. 21

☞ Notice.

DIFFICULTIES arising from the nature of the following work, the publisher has been compelled to remove to Philadelphia for the better execution of his plan. The editorial department has in consequence fallen into other hands. Mr. ALLEN's present engagement rendering it impossible to superintend it in another city. The friends and relations of the different signers to the Declaration of Independence are therefore requested to direct their favors to the publisher, No. 443, Market-street, Philadelphia.

PROPOSALS

By Joseph M Sanderson,

For Publishing by Subscription,

A Biography of the Signers

OF THE

Declaration of Independence,

Accompanied with Plates.

To which will be annexed a History of the Proceedings of Congress, during the passage of the Law, and the Declaration itself, with the fac simile Engravings of the Signatures.

By JOHN SANDERSON.

TO THE PUBLIC.

When we consider the personal qualities of the statesmen whose names are affixed to the Declaration of Independence, the perilous occasion which demanded the exercise of their wisdom and deliberation, and the influence of their councils on the interests of mankind, we must acknowledge that very rarely a more imposing spectacle has been offered to the world, and we shall seek in vain in the annals of nations, for an event more worthy of commemoration, and of being cherished forever in the hearts of a grateful and generous people. The love of independence is interwoven with the frame and constitution of the human mind. It is almost the first sentiment that animates the infant's features in the cradle; and amongst all the actions and enterprizes of man, none has awaked into activity a greater exertion of the virtuous energies of his nature, none has excited a greater warmth of veneration, and has more imperious claims upon our gratitude, than resistance to tyranny and political aggression.

In all republican states the first tribute of genius has been paid to the patriot or the hero who has promoted the cause of liberty and maintained the independence and dignity of man. The animated canvas and breathing marble have rescued his features from the grasp of death, and the pen of the historian has inscribed the achievements to the imperishable records of fame. It would indeed be no favorible prognostic of the perpetuity of our republican institutions to discover an insensibility to the obligations we owe the memory of the illustrious patrons of American freedom. They have raised us, by their magnanimity, from the arbitrary dominion of a foreign power, to the distinguished elevation of a sovereign and independent people; they have asserted and maintained the imprescriptiole rights of humanity by the "mutual pledge of their pledge of their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honors;" and, as long as virtue holds her empire in the hearts of their successors, the example of these generous benefactors will not be lost to the world, their names will not pass away nor be forgotten, or their glorious deeds be confounded in the common and casual transaction of life.—Ingratitude is a vice that in nations, as well as individuals, indicates the last degree of degeneracy and corruption; it is a vice that implies the absence of every virtue; it was in the age of Caligula that the name of the Scipios was proscribed, that the state of Brutus brought death on its possessor.

"The glory of our ancestors is the light of posterity," and the homage of the living cannot be offered to the merits of the illustrious dead with an effectual or sterile admiration. Great and splendid actions will seldom be achieved by men who have humble or ordinary objects in prospect. It is by contemplating the life and character of those who are marked out from the multitude by their eminent qualities, that we become emulous of their virtues and their renown. The trophies of Miltiades interrupted the sleeps of Themistocles; and Theseus, hearing the exploits of Hercules, was fired with his spirit, and became the successful rival of his fame. The rude savage of the desert listens with rapture to the deeds of his ancestors, and hangs around his hut the emblems of his father's valour.

More need not be said to enforce the utility of the publication we have undertaken, and which we now submit to the patronage of our fellow-citizens, with a hope, that from the liberality of their encouragement, we shall be able to present it to the public worthy of their approbation. We must depend for the illustration of many of the characters of our biography, upon the generosity of their surviving relatives and friends, to furnish us with whatever interesting materials may be in their possession; for which, with our grateful acknowledgments, we promise a copy of the entire work as a compensation.

CONDITIONS.

I. The work will be published in numbers or half volumes of 200 pages, octavo, and contained in ten numbers. To the first will be prefixed an appropriate frontis-piece—and the work will be commenced with the declaration of independence, with engraved fac similes of the signatures, and a compendious detail of the proceedings of congress, during the passage of the law. Each of the lives, unless when it is impracticable, will be preceded by a likeness of the person, engraved by the best artists in the United States.

II. It will be printed on fine paper, made expressly for the purpose, and delivered to subscribers at two dollars and fifty cents per number, payable on delivery.

From the Baltimore Morning Chronicle.

LINES,

In memory of the late Rev. Dr. INGLIS, of Baltimore.

"Blessed are the dead that die in the Lord!"

Farewell! thou herald of a Saviour's love,
"Thy missions ended," saints proclaim abroad;
Ascend triumphant to the courts above,
There to receive thy welcome and reward.
There 'mid the countless myriads of the blest,
Thy happy soul shall make its short abode;
While from its toilsome labors it shall rest
Safe in the bosom of thy Saviour God.

But, what a different scene appears below!
The church of God in weeping silence moans;
Grief unexpected, unprepared for woe,
Have turned her joyful melodies to groans!

Amid this darkness, solitude and gloom,
Does no blessed beam of cheering hope arise!
No prospect brighten o'er the silent tomb;
No kindly star illume death's shrouded skies.

Yes, from those shades of horror and despair
Religion speaks with accents most divine:
"Thy dear Redeemer once has enter'd here,
And conquer'd these terrific foes of thine."

Then let the mourners dry the flowing tear,
When Gabriel's trump shall wake the vaulted skies, [bear,
He, with his weeping flock shall wake and
And in his Saviour's glorious image rise.

ANECDOTES OF THE GREYHOUND.

Selected from the Sportsmen's Magazine

The greyhound is of a beautiful and delicate formation for speed and majestic attraction; if a metaphorical allusion may be made between the human and the brute creation, the allegory would not be too far extended in considering the greyhound, from his appearance, equanimity, mildness and affability, one of the superior classes of his own society: he possesses all the dignity, without the degredation of any part of his species, and is never seen without a predilection in his favor. They have been for many centuries in the highest estimation in his country; and, in the remote time of king John, greyhounds were accepted by him in payment, in lieu of money, for the renewal of grants, fines and forfeitures, due to the crown. One fine paid to this monarch, upon record, 1203, specifies "five hundred marks, ten horses, and ten leashes of greyhounds." Another in seven years after, "one swift running horse and six greyhounds."

The energetic velocity of the greyhound in pursuit of game has always been matter of admiration to the lovers of the sport; but more particularly so to the ruminative amateur, when prompted by reflection to make comparisons. Various have been the opinions from the difference of speed between a well-bred greyhound and blood horse of some celebrity, if opposed to each other for a mile, or for any greater or shorter distance. It has, by the best and most experienced judges, been thought that, upon a flat, a horse of this description would prove superior to the greyhound, for either an extended or contracted distance; but that in a hilly country the greyhound would have an evident advantage. Wishes had been frequently indulged by different branches of the sporting world, that some criterion could be adopted, by which the certainty of superiority in speed could be fairly ascertained; when, after a variety of suggestions and propositions from one quarter to another without success, the following circumstance accidentally took place, affording some rays of information upon what was previously considered a matter of the greatest uncertainty.

In the month of December, 1800, a match was to have been run over Doncaster course for one hundred guineas, but one of the horses having been drawn, a mare started alone, that by running the ground she might ensure the wager: when having run one mile of the four, she was accompanied by a greyhound bitch, who joined her from the side of the course, and emulatively entering into competition, continued to race with the mare the other three miles, keeping nearly head and head, affording an excellent treat to the field, by the energetic exertions of each. At passing the distance five to four was betted in favor of the greyhound: when parallel with the stand, it was even betting, and any one might have taken his choice for five or ten; the mare, however, had the advantage by a head at the termination.

A merchant advertising an assortment of goods for sale, gives notice, that he will take in payment all kinds of country produce except promises.

ALEXANDRIA:
TUESDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 2.

At Albany, on the 25th ult. there was a continued fall of snow with sleet for several hours.

A spirit of improvement is prevailing in the state of New-York, in defiance of the embarrassment of the times. An Oswego paper informs that the public mind is much occupied on the subject of making a road from Buffaloe to Sackett's Harbor, which will open a direct communication between Lake Champlain and the western lakes, making the route several miles shorter than at present.

An agricultural fair was held in Vermont, on the 7th ult. The best acre of winter wheat produced 44 bushels and 6 quarts, raised in Shrewsbury; the best acre of Indian corn 94 bushels; the best half acre of potatoes 207½ bushels. The Rutland paper remarks that "the day was rendered peculiarly interesting by the presence of Henry Francisco, of the age of 137 years, who ploughed a furrow with the oxen that day exhibited. This veteran, who in the year 1702, bore arms at the time of the coronation of Queen Anne, in the year 1819, held the plough, at the first exhibition of the Rutland county agricultural society, and witnessed the assemblage of many thousands of wealthy, industrious and respectable inhabitants, in a section of the country which was uninhabited and scarcely known when he had attained his three score years and ten.'

BREAD.

The Corporation of the city of New-York, by a new act, passed the 25th ult. allow bakers three dollars profit on each barrel of flour baked, instead of 4 dolls. 25 cts. heretofore allowed.

Mr. Guille, the æronaut, who was to have ascended in his balloon, at New-York, on the 22d ult. was prevented by the impracticability of inflating it in season. The balloon, however, ascended alone at 4 o'clock, and was conveyed in an easterly direction to Newhaven, at the rate of 90 miles an hour. It passed over that city, and landed at Bozrah, at a quarter past 6, travelling a distance of 160 miles in two hours and a quarter.

"It sped thro' the air like a meteor swift,
While the clouds wandering by it did fearfully drift
To the right and the left as it pass'd."

A letter from Norwich of the 22d ult. (published in an eastern paper) describing the descent of the balloon, says, "it hovered over them for an hour, when it finally lit in Col. Johnson's orchard, in perfect order and uninjured. The people were terrified at the sight of it; some thought it was an angel, and a propitious omen, while the guilty trembling sinner gazed with terror at so strange an object, concluding that the angel Gabriel was about to appear, and sound the last trumpet, before they were summoned to judgment; whilst others thought they discovered, at full length, the descent of the devil, with his cloven feet, &c. Fear soon subsided, and crowds were seen flocking to view it."

The New-York papers announce the return of Mr Guille with his balloon, who is soon to make an ascent for the gratification of the public gratuitously.

MORE PIRACY.

The schr. Adeline, Ellis, 21 days from Trinidad, (Cuba) arrived at Charleston on the 20th ult. The following extract from her log book is published in the papers:

Charleston, October 20.

Arrived, schr. Adeline, Ellis, 21 days from Trinidad, (Cuba) with coffee, sugar, molasses, honey and segars.—Sept. 10th, off Cape Antonia, was boarded by a Patriot privateer and treated politely. On the 12th inst. off the south side of the Florida Keys, while becalmed, was boarded by a piratical boat, manned by seven men, armed with swords, muskets, &c. Immediately after boarding, they demanded the schr's. papers, and drove the captain, mate and all hands into the forecastle. After searching in vain for money, they called up the cook, who informed them that there was specie on board; the mate was next called, and questioned whether there was any money on board or not? to which he replied there was not any, to his knowledge. The mate was then ordered into the after-cabin and placed under a sentinel, leaving his hat on deck—immediately after they fired through the hat, killed a parrot, and immersed it in blood. The captain was called up, had a musket presented to his breast and a sword drawn over his head, when the ruffians asked him (pointing to the mate's hat) whether he knew it or not? He answered, he did. They then demanded of him the money which the cook had informed them of. Captain Ellis thinking they had killed his mate, in order to save his own life, was compelled to tell them that there was money on board, but did not know where it was stowed—that his mate knew where it was, and no other person on board. The mate was then again called, and threatened if he did not instantly deliver the money, they would throw him overboard—upon which he reluctantly gave it up, (the whole amounting to only 60 dollars.) They then ordered all hands below a second time, placing a centinel over them—when they commenced plundering the vessel of all her cabin furniture, ship stores, part of the cargo, and also robbing Mr. Antonio Hernandez, (a passenger) of the whole of his clothing, with the exception of one suit—leaving on board only 24 pounds beef, 15 pounds of bread, and 50 gallons of water. After remaining on board about four hours, they departed, carrying off the cook, named Henry Johnson, a free black fellow, belonging to Germantown, (Pa.) They bore away for the schr. Favorite; and it is presumed that she must have shared the same fate, as several flashes of muskets were distinctly seen from the deck of the Adeline. Captain E. states, that the Favorite had upwards of 10 or 15,000 dollars on board. Next morning, saw a boat leave a schr. from under the land, which was taken for the Favorite, and no doubt she was plundered.—The Adeline was bound to Boston, but owing to the above misfortunes, put into this port.

Albany, October 29.

On Thursday last, the hon. Supreme Court, now sitting in this city, delivered an important decision in the case of John Godfrey, on a question of jurisdictional right in this state to take cognizance of offences arising within the limits of such places within the state as are garrisoned by the army of the U. States.

The prisoner was tried at the summer circuit in the county of Niagara, for the murder of a fellow soldier, under circumstances of peculiar atrocity. It appeared from the recapitulation of the facts, by his honor Justice Platt, that it had been committed within the fortress of Niagara—and that the prisoner was convicted on full and satisfactory evidence. An objection was taken by the prisoner's counsel, that the jurisdiction of this state did not extend to such places as were occupied by the U. States as a garrison—His honor the chief justice delivered the opinion of the court, that the act was committed within the jurisdiction of this state, and that the prisoner was amenable to its laws.

An impressive address was then made by Judge Platt to the prisoner, in a manner that reflects on him the highest honor as a man, a scholar and a christian. The sentence was then passed, ordering the prisoner for execution, in the county of Niagara, on Friday the 3d day of December next.

The Albany Gazette mentions, that, in the town of Canajoharie, county of Montgomery, there are two men and their wives, whose ages, when added together, amount to 352 years. The youngest of the four is 86 years old. Each couple has been married, and both lived in the same neighborhood, upwards of 60 years.

A CHRYSTAL SUMMER-HOUSE.

Furetiere has given a description or a very curious chrystal summer-house, invented for the king of Siam. The description was transmitted to him by a friend who had had the honor of a seat in it.

The surgeon of the French frigate Arethusa, while lying at the port of New-York, transmitted for publication the following remarkable cures:

"During our stay at Annapolis, a great many of the crew of the French frigate Arethusa, were attacked with cholera morbus, which was quickly put a stop to by the use of rice-water very strong, with much sugar, and a little laudanum in it, drank plentifully.—Out of one hundred and forty sick, only one died."

We are truly happy to learn, from one of Gen. Jackson's aids, that the indisposition of the general, lately noticed in the Milledgeville Journal, was but trivial; that he has since recovered, and is now enjoying a good state of health. The general contemplates a resignation after the close of the ensuing congress. [Augusta Chronicle.

The Kentucky papers state, that the university, over which the Rev. Mr. HOLLEY presides, has opened its second session with an increased number of students. About 30 new ones have already entered, making the whole number 172.

The White Hills of New-Hampshire, says a late Portland paper, have been covered with snow for about a fortnight, and make a beautiful and splendid appearance from this town. They are seen to more advantage this month than any other, on account of the clearness of the atmosphere. In the morning when the sun first rises upon them, tinging them with gold, they make a sublime and magnificent display. It is well worth rising early, to view so distinctly, though at the distance of seventy miles, the highest mountains in North America.

PRIZE SHOOTING.

On Monday last, there was a firing for prizes among several of the volunteer corps of this city. I witnessed the firing of the independent blues, commanded by Captain Campbell. The distance was 105 yards.—There were three balls put into the mark, or bull's eye, and twenty-one within eleven inches of the centre. The prize, a medal valued at thirty dollars, was awarded to Corporal Rogers, brother-in-law to the present mayor & presented by the captain. I am informed that this company, during the last war with Great-Britain, performed two tours of duty; one at Fort Mifflin, under the command of Capt. Barker; the other, under general Cadwallader, at Camp Dupoint.

A SPECTATOR.

On Monday, 25th ult. the fire was communicated to the Philadelphia theatre, through a flaw in the chimney, and when discovered, was spreading to the ladies dressing room.—It was soon extinguished with very inconsiderable damage.

Spurious Almanacs have been offered for sale in Ohio; printed probably at random, to save the astronomer's fee. They are said to predict eclipses that will never happen, (the more wonderful and numerous the better the Almanac might sell)—and moons on dark nights, (when they are very much wanted.)

A writer in the New-York Evening Post, speaking of the Bankrupt law, observes, "if a banking institution fail to redeem its notes, and in specie if required, on demand, it might and ought to be declared bankrupt: all further operations should from that moment, cease, and its funds placed in the hands of conservators, for the benefit of its unfortunate and unwary creditors."

The Black Dwarf, the Medusa, the Sherwin, and other recently established opposition prints in England, are said to be carried through the country by cart-loads, and dispersed among the people, for the express purpose of inflaming the public mind against the government. [N. Y. Gazette.

Kingston, (Jamaica,) Aug. 31.

Dissentions have lately arisen so high in the island of Barbados, respecting the governor, the liberty of the press, &c. that a meeting was called of the inhabitants, on the 10th of this month, to be held at Mason's Hall, Bridgetown, to testify their sentiments on the happiness of the country under the administration of his Excellency Lord Combermere. The advertisement calling the meeting is signed by the attorney-general, and the most respectable inhabitants.

In consequence of the following clause of the alien act passed at Barbados, having been deemed very oppressive, a petition was presented to the assembly on the 29th ult. by the free people of color, praying that it might be re-considered, otherwise the operation would be of great severity; when the house agreed to make the alteration prayed for.

"Clause 12th.—And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, that it shall and may be lawful for the governor or commander in chief of this island for the time being, whenever he shall deem it necessary for the public safety, to send off this island any person not being a natural born subject, or any free negro, or free person of color, not being a native of this island, who shall have been committed to gaol by warrant, under the hand and seal of any justice of the peace, under and by virtue of this act; or any free negro or free person of color, whether the same be natives of this island, or who shall appear to be a person of dangerous and suspicious character: and that it shall and may be lawful for the said governor or commander in chief for the time being, to arrest any such person by a warrant under his hand and seal, and thereby to keep and detain any such person in safe custody in the common gaol of this island, until such person can be transported for life from this Island.—And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, that if any such person sent off this island by command of the governor or commander in chief of this island for the time being, shall return and be found at large within this island, every such person shall, on conviction thereof at the court of grand sessions in this island, be adjudged to suffer death without benefit of clergy."

WESTMINSTER ABBEY.

From Noah's Travels.

We proceeded to view Westminster Abbey, the depository of all that was great in arms, in arts and in sciences.—The weather was excessively hot, and the damp air, on entering the abbey, produced a chill, which was not allayed by a view of the tombs and sepulchres by which I was surrounded. Westminster Abbey is built on the site where once stood the temple of Apollo. To trace it from its origin, through the successive reigns of Roman, Saxon, Norman and British kings; to note its destruction, rebuilding enlargements and endowments; its saints, abbots and precendaries, would occupy a folio volume. It is impossible to see it without veneration, or contemplate the monuments of illustrious men, without feeling respect for the country that had wisdom to discern, and liberality to patronize genius. The architecture of the abbey is gothic, but the frequent alterations and additions have created a strange mixture of styles. It is about 480 feet in length, with several aisles, which together with the nave, are supported by light pillars; towers are built at the west end. We entered at the door facing the poet's corner; a few poor women asked alms of us; we were near the tomb of Shakespeare, and they followed our steps. A lean sepulchral looking man, with a red nose and a black rattan in his hand, was stationed to show us the curiosities; he postponed his rounds until he could collect a large company, and swell the aggregate of his fees; he looked like the crier of the court of Radamanthus, and it was evident that he had not profited by being daily on visiting terms with the illustrious tenants of this mansion; no ray of genius shot from his hollow eye—no spark of intellect lighted up his cadaverous countenance; he started, as it were from the tomb, to introduce us to his contemporaries, and a biographical sketch of each tenant was given, with an air of apathy and indifference which custom had rendered familiar. His place as master of ceremonies in the abbey, I learnt, was purchased, and a remuneration was had from the bounty of visitors. Every thing I discovered subsequently, was on the same scale in London; money was the grand talisman, indispensable to curiosity, or even the comforts of retirement.—Our guide pointed out the tombs of several of the ancient nobility, whose rank and titles will be the daily theme as long as visitors will pay for the description.—We entered by a flight of steps to the chapel of Henry the 7th, where the king lies "quietly inurned." Taking into consideration the general parsimony of his life, it is surprising that he should have gone to the expense of so sumptuous a tomb; but he discovered that the small chapel of Edward the Confessor was too crowded with royalty to offer him sufficient room.

It is a splendid structure; the gallant Richmond and his wife are represented in effigy; their figures at full length in brass; which, together with the ornamental decoration of the tomb, are the work of Torresiano, a Florentine sculptor. At the north end are the remains of the two princes, Edward and York, who were smothered in the tower by command of Richard; they were discovered during the reign of Charles the 2d, among the rubbish, under the stairs of the white tower, and by him piously transferred to this spot. Here also are deposited the remains of Elizabeth, the only great woman that ever governed in Great Britain, and whose talents as a queen, shed lustre over the country. She was the rarest instance of mind, fortitude, confidence and success, that we have recorded in the history of woman. Near her, as if to mock the purposes of fate, lies Mary, Queen of Scots, the most unfortunate of her sex, whom Elizabeth imprisoned from policy, and murdered from fear. She had been originally buried in the cathedral at Peterboro'; her son when he obtained the crown, caused her remains to be removed and placed near the former rival.

The ancient tombs are preposterous and absurd; a whole length figure in marble is stiffly stretched on the summit of each, clad in armor; and a few others with their hands elevated in prayer.—These cumbrous & inelegant specimens of sculpture, convey a just idea of the rude and barbarous taste which prevailed in the darker ages; the modern monuments are light, and several of them finely executed; Lord Mansfield's and Lord Chatham's, both of whom merited the best efforts of the chisel, as well as the pen, are among the most splendid. Here also a monument is erected to the unfortunate Major Andre, with whose history and virtues the American people are familiar; it is somewhat disfigured by rude and ignorant persons. A small sarcophagus is raised to the memory of Mr. Wragg, who was drowned on his passage to England, having refused to abandon the royal cause during the revolutionary war.—There is something grateful even in the remembrance of national sacrifices; and however we may lament the infatuation, which could abandon a cause so just as ours, we have no right to impugn the motives. I spent near an hour in the poet's corner.

Under the monument of Shakespeare David Garrick lies buried; nothing could be more judicious. Here is a beautiful, monument to Addison, the best of men and scholars; there is a table to Goldsmith, the most able and amiable of poets. Here the name of Handel is inscribed, surrounded by the insignia of his profession; and there reposed the ashes of Johnson, a Colossus in literature, whose vigorous mind has done more for the English language than any author of modern times. The eye in its range through the corner, lights on the names of Spencer, Chaucer, Butler, Johnson, Davenant, Gay, Dryden, Prior, Rowe, Thompson, Cowley, Mason, and others, no less illustrious; all of which are calculated to awaken sensations of awe, and feelings of admiration and respect.

These in part, were the ancestors of our nation, and while we should endeavor to produce parallels; advance science and literature, and reward merit of our own, we have no occasion to be ashamed of our origin; there is much to admire and imitate. Fox and Pitt, two great political rivals, lie peaceably together, under plain slabs, upon which are simply inscribek the initials of their names.

The following ludicrous scene took place a few days ago at Broughty Ferry: A letter was received at the Ferry, by the wife of a fisherman employed at Wick, in the end of which he mentioned, "I add no more." The wife being no great scholar, read it, "I am no more," and conceived the letter to be an intimation of her husband's death. She became frantic and inconsolable at the news, and bitterly bewailed her heavy bereavement, in which she was joined by many other fishermen's wives, about a score in number, who had that instant heard a report of the loss of several fishing boats at Wick. It is impossible to describe their melancholy lamentations at their supposed loss, until a gentlemen, whose humanity prompted him to request a perusal of the letter, gave these forlorn widows, as they supposed themselves, the most unspeakable comfort by explaining that the alarming words were nothing more than a term of farewell. The mourning of these women was of course, instantly turned into rejoicings.

[Inverness paper.

Died,

At her residence, near Alexandria, on the 23d ultimo, after an illness of only a few hours, from perfect health, Mrs. MILDRED DIXON, in the 60th year of her age.

On the first manifestation of disease, medical aid of the first standing was called in by her anxious children, but in vain! The great fiat had been pronounced, calling her from the abodes of this life; and it was speedily obeyed—so speedily that she may be said, like the favorites of old, to have been translated without tasting death.

She was a firm believer in the gospel, whose sacred truths ever dwelt upon her heart, and influenced all her acts. Her benevolence, charity, piety and fortitude were proverbial; and the patience and resignation with which she bore the most afflicting trials of life, excited not only the admiration of her relations and acquaintance, but assured them, at the same time that she possessed a peace of mind "surpassing all understanding."

She has left behind her a daughter, (Mrs. Love of Clermont) and two sons, to mourn the loss of a tender and affectionate parent; but she has left them an example, in her life, of piety, patience and resignation to the will of God, which must ever be their best inheritance, and make them feel a joy unspeakable that it has been their happy lot to have had such a mother.

Public Sale.

UNDER the authority of a deed made to the subscribers, by Wm. H. Foote and Benjamin M Brooke, acting as commissioners under an act of the General Assembly of Virginia, passed on the 21st day of February, 1818, entitled, "an act authorising the sale of certain lands belonging to the heirs of the late Walter D. Brooke," and which said deed was in trust, among other things, to secure to the said commissioners and to the persons entitled to receive the same from the purchasers under said deed the sum of 385 dollars, to be paid on the 19th day of September, 1819, will be sold at public auction, for cash, at 12 o'clock, on Saturday, the 4th day of December next, on the premises, one undivided fourth part of that portion of a certain tract of land, situate in the county of Fairfax and state of Virginia, commonly called which Ann Brooke holds as dower, in the deceased husband's estate, which undivided fourth part, being about 35½ acres, will be sold, subject to the life estate of the said widow, Ann Brooke.

RETIREMENT,

Valuable Land for Sale.

PURSUANT to a decree of the Superior court of chancery for the district of Fredericksburg in Virginia, the undersigned commissioners will proceed to sell at public auction, upon a credit of one, two, and three years, at Middleburg, in the county of Loudon, on Thursday the 18th day of November next,

4000 Acres of Land,

lying in the neighborhood of Middleburg. The whole land is of that quality termed plaister land, and susceptible of high improvement by the use of it. The whole will be laid out into small tracts, of from two to three hundred acres each, and sold in separate tracts to suit purchasers. The whole well watered, and no country is more healthy. Captain Pickett, who lives near the land, and who is employed to make a survey of it; and Mr. Sommers, who is the agent for the collection of the rents, will shew the land to those who may be inclined to purchase. Bond and security, and a deed of trust upon each tract, will be required of the purchaser.

Thirty Dollars Reward.

ABSCONDED from the residence of his master, in Washington city, on the evening of Thursday last, a negro boy named SAM, who calls himself SAM BROWN. He is about 19 years of age, not of the deepest black, and is a stout, well set likely boy. He had on when he went away, a blue cloth jacket, corduroy pantaloons, and white vest, and took with him, besides, a blue cloth coat, white pantaloons, and white vest. He is the property of William Lowndes, Esq. and it is supposed he has been induced, in the absence of his master, to leave home, by some designing person. It is probable he will aim to reach some northern port, or get on board of some boat or vessel in the river. Whoever will deliver the said boy to the Jailor of Washington city, shall receive the above reward, on application at the office of the National Intelligencer.

S. Drew, Merchant Tailor,

Removed from Fairfax-street to the corner of King and Columbus streets, and his prices falling,

RESPECTFULLY acquaints his customers and the citizens in general that he has removed as above, where he will study to give satisfaction. He has by him a small but well assorted stock of goods, which will be found on inspection to be of the best quality, the whole of which he wishes to sell low for cash, and as further inducements to purchasers he offers to cut out any goods, bought of him to any size or pattern gratis.

S. Drew aware, of the advantage a ready money business has over one where long credit is given, thinks that a distinction ought to be made in the prices in each case: and as the price of provisions are low at present, he is glad to be able to announce to those customers who will feel disposed to pay him ready money for his work, that he will reduce the price of making to them according to the present journeymen's wages; and to prevent any supposed imposition on the one hand or disatisfaction on the other he is willing to be goverued by the printed regulations of prices by which the journeymen are paid in Alexandria.

N. B. Bread, flour, beef, groceries, liquors or any thing valuable taken in exchange for clothes.

S. Drew has this day opened a tavern in the same house, where he has laid in a supply of Philadelphia and the district porter and ale, together with liquors of the best quality, and he feels confident that he shall be able to give satisfaction to all who will please to favor him with a call.—He is fitting up his house for the accommodation of boarders, travellers, &c. and from its central situation, good beds and stabling, together with other requisites, he presumes that it will be found a convenient establishment.

Was Committed,

TO the jail for the county of Alexandria on the 3d inst. as a runaway, a negro man called BEN HENDERSON, supposed to be the property of George Thornton, of King George county. The said negro is about 50 years of age; 5 feet 6 inches high; bald head; and a shoemaker by trade. The owner is desired to come prove property, pay charges, and take him away, otherwise he will be disposed of as the law directs.
ANDW. ROUNSAVELL,
september 8 Jailor.

100 Dollars Reward.

RAN away on the 28th of April, from the farm of the subscriber, in Dogue Neck, Fairfax Co. Virginia, negro HARRY, aged about twenty three years, about five feet ten inches high, very black, well built, has a considerable impediment in his speech, when spoken to evinces much co fusion, and replies almost unintelligibly: had on when he left home, a much worn suit of domestic cloth. I have every reason to believe that he is endeavoring to pass for a free man, and as such went off in some of the bay craft during the late fishing season. All masters of vessels are forewarned from harboring or taking into their employ said negro, under penalty of having the law rigidly enforced against them. I will give twenty dollars, if taken in the county of Fairfax, or district of Columbia; if beyond that distance, the above reward, provided he is secured in jail so that I get him again. WM. MASON.
Charles County, Md. June 1.

The editors of the National Intelligencer and Baltimore Federal Gazette will insert the above until forbid, and send their accounts to Port Tobacco for payment.

100 Dollars Reward.

I WILL give the above reward to any person who will return to my possession, negro LAWRENCE, who assumes the surname of FENWICK. This fellow left my farm, on the Wicomico river, in Charles county, Md. on the 6th July, in consequence of his own outrageous conduct towards my overseer. He is a negro of a fine erect figure, good features, a smooth black skin, rather above the middle stature, of a youthful appearance for one of thirty years of age, and of great plausibility and natural smartness. His ears grow remarkably close to his head, and on the inside of his lower lip he has a white mark or spot. I purchased him 4 years ago of the estate of Mrs. P. H. Courts, of this county. I am led (by circumstances which have come to my knowledge since he absconded,) to believe that he will endeavor to make his way to King George county, Va.; should he not take this route, he will probably be met with in the District of Columbia, or in the upper counties of this state, on his way to Pennsylvania. I apprehend he will change his name, and if committed to jail, refuse to state to whom he belongs, as the misconduct which preceded his departure, & his absconding, have all appeared since to have been premeditated. He took all his clothes with him, of which he had a large number; among them—a new bearskin over-coat, a long close-bodied blue coat, a pair of striped jean pantaloons, one or more white waistcoats, besides many articles of coarse cloathing; these, however, he will probably exchange, or sell them for cash to defray his travelling expenses.

I will give the above reward to any person who will bring him home to me, or FIFTY DOLLARS if confined in jail, and notice given me, so that I recover him.—Should he be taken out of the state, I will also pay all reasonable costs and charges which may attend the bringing him home.

PROSPECTUS

Of a new periodical work to be published in the city of Washington, entitled the Washington Theological REPERTORY.

EDITORS. { Rev. Wm Hawley, Washington, Rev. Wm. H. Wilmer, Alexandria, Rev. Oliver Norris, Alexandria, Rev. Reuel Keith, Georgetown.

Assisted by several other literary gentlemen of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

IF any apology were necessary for this undertaking, it may be found in the fact, that there is no publication on a similar plan, in all that section of our country lying south of New-York, and but one in the whole of the United States. It has been matter of equal surprize and regret, that the Episcopal Church should be so far behind other Christian denominations, in similar efforts to disseminate the principles of religion and piety. At a period like the present, when the Lord is preparing his way on earth, by the most remarkable efforts of human agency, and the most wonderful operations of his providence and grace—when we perceive in every part of Christendom, a praise-worthy emulation to share in the glorious work of filling the earth with the knowledge of the only true God, and his Son Jesus Christ; it would seem criminal for any to withhold their exertions, however feeble, in the great enterprize of human happiness and salvation. The editors have, therefore, felt it their duty to make this humble effort to supply this acknowledged deficiency on the part of the church in this section of the country, and to bear their share in the common exertions of Christians to promote the Redeemer's Kingdom. And having obtained the services of a gentleman, in whose talents and principles they have confidence, whose time will be wholly devoted to the superintendence of the work, they feel encouraged to solicit the patronage of the public.

The publecation will be conducted under the immediate inspection and control of the above named editors, who will form a committee to review every article intended for publication. The principles upon which it will be conducted are those of the bible, as illustrated in the articles, Liturgy and Homilies of the Protestant Episcopal Church. As members of this church the editors will feel bound to support the Apostolical character of her institutions, the pious tendency of her rites and ceremonies, and the evangelical nature of her doctrines. But in these, and all other discussions, they hope never to loose sight of that great law of charity which teaches us to "preserve the unity of the spirit in the bond of peace."

Acting upon those catholic principles, so long and so successively pursued by "The Christian Observer," their chief object will be to inculcate sound theological knowledge, and to delineate and recommend pure and vital religion. They trust therefore, that while the members of every Christian denomination may find something edifying and instructive, none will discover any just cause for offence in the pages of this work. General subjects of biblical criticism, practical illustrations of scriptural truth, the biography of illustrious persons, evidences of the truth of revelation, essays on the history and polity of the church, reviews of interesting publications, religious, literary and philosophical intelligence—in short, whatever is connected with the promotion of religion, humanity and literature, will find a place in this repository.

The testimony of experience supersedes the necessity of dwelling on the advantages of a periodical publication on the plan proposed. Its obvious tendency will be to render the various departments of religious knowledge more easy and accessible, and give a more ready currency and wider circulation, to those great truths which involve the present welfare and future destiny of man.

It will tend powerfully to stimulate the exertions of the editors, and console them under the difficulties attendant on the prosecution of this work, amidst many other avocations, should it prove the means under the blessing of God, of enriching any of its readers with the saving knowledge of Christ, and prepare them for a participation in the felicity and glory of his heavenly kingdom. With this hope they commit it into his hands, and confidently solicit their brethren of the clergy and laity to assist them in carrying into effect the objects of the undertaking.

TERMS OF THE WORK.

A volume of the Repertory shall consist of twelve numbers, of which one shall be published on the first day of every month, containing thirty-two large octavo pages, stitched in blue, and attended with a table of contents.

The paper used in the work shall be good, and the typography executed with the greatest care.

The price of a volume is two dollars, payable in advance; to such as omit the advance, two dollars and fifty cents.

It is designed to enlarge the size of the work, without increasing the price, as soon as one thousand subscribers shall be obtained.

Communications and remittances may be directed to any of the editors, post paid.

Any person becoming responsible for five subscribers, shall receive a sixth copy gratis.

The first number may be expected in the month of July. June 26
